Everyone has dreamed of having one special wish come true. My wish would be to live in a better world. The three things I would change about our world would be war, crime, and for more people to be happy. There are so many issues in our world today that no one has peace anymore. I truly hope that with my wish I could make the world a more enjoyable place to live in.

The first aspect of my wish that I would like to come true would be to stop war. Many wars lead to people dying and everyone gets caught up in the war they don't realize how much damage they're doing to the world itself. For example, the war in Iraq is turning into a world war. They are trying to bring everyone into the war which could turn in to the next World War III. Hopefully with my wish I could change this about the world.

Secondly, I would change the crime rate. When people get angry they tend to do horrible crimes. This can include murder, homicide, doing drugs, and driving drunk. I would like to change all of that because I do not think just because you are having issues means you should take them out on other people. This is a major issue in our world today and with my wish I would like to lower the crime rate.

The last part of my wish I would make would be for more people to be happy with what they have. We take many aspects of our life for granted and don't know what all we really have until we have already lost it. For example, if you have a grandparent that you do not see very often and then one day the person dies you probably would have done things differently and visited them more often. My wish would be for people to be happy with what they have.

There are many things I could wish for but if I had to choose only three these would be my wishes. I would try and stop war, bring down the crime rate, and make everyone in the world happier people. This wish would be very helpful in the world to day. With my wish I would make the world a better more happier place to live in.

Score Point: 5

This response reflects a strong degree of proficiency in expository writing skills. The writer's special wish would be to live in a better world. Supporting solutions are cited to make this wish come true (to stop war, change the crime rate, and make people happy with what they have). The response is well organized and key ideas are explained. However, more sophisticated word choice, varied syntax, and development are required for a higher score.
